

Junior communications advisor

The Middle Men is a strategic communication agency. We are convinced that strategy must lead communications. The Middle Men advises and accompanies both governments and private companies in their communication strategies. We help our clients to define their ambitions and to translate them into efficient strategies combined with actions and tools that make a difference. For more information, visit www.themiddlemen.be.

We are looking for a Junior communication advisor who can strengthen the team Brussels.

JOB DESCRIPTION:

- As a Junior communications advisor you execute research that contributes to the elaboration of communication plans.
- You write press releases, information letters, website texts and brochures
- You are responsible for the follow-up and monitoring of communication channels both offline and online
- You also have operational skills and assist with the set-up and execution of public hearings and information sessions
- You are part of translating these strategies in well-defined communication actions and tools

PROFILE:

- You have a master's degree in communications, political, and social sciences, or a similar field of study.
- You received your degree recently or already have a first working experience. Newcomers are more than welcome!
- You are a passionate writer
- You have a hands-on mentality
- You are motivated and enthusiastic
- Fluency, both written and oral, in Dutch is essential
- A profound knowledge of French and/or English is a significant differentiator

OFFER:

- You are part of a young and ambitious communications agency, and eager to grow with us.
- You follow, take part and act in significant projects
- You work in a multilingual context
- A multi-faced function with personal autonomy
- An internal formation and professional guidance are foreseen
- We create an attractive salary package based on your competence and experiences

Interested? Send your CV and a letter of motivation to Philippe De Vries philippe@themiddlemen.be.
Please contact us, if you want any further information!